Anything You Would Like To Try, You'll Find It In London

London, home to eight million people and the biggest city in Western Europe, is absolutely overflowing with people, culture, ideas, and history. Renowned for the shopping, historical landmarks, vibrant nightlife, and plenitude of things to do, London makes for a top-notch vacation spot. If you have an interest in something, you will be able to find something in London to cater to that interest. Before you travel to London or anywhere else outside the United States, you will need to get a passport first.

Getting your passport doesn't need to drain the life out of you. With online passport services, you never have to drive to a passport agency or a post office, wait in line, and then wait for months for your passport to arrive ever again. Instead, you can choose when you'd like to have your passport delivered, and it arrives by the time you need it. You can also use several other online services, such as a passport renewal for if you already have a passport, passports for children, and more. Online passport services takes the stress out of getting a passport.

One very popular thing to do in London is the London Urban Adventures tour. This tour brings you and no more than 12 other people around London, through the backstreets and other hidden places, and also to the most well-known attractions in London. What's great about this tour is that it shows you what London is really like and how it works, instead of just taking you around the tourist scene. The guides are very knowledgeable and friendly, making sure you have a quality tour and walk away knowing London like Londoners do.

If you want to see all the most relevant landmarks all in one swoop, look into going on a Thames River Cruise. The Thames slides right through the middle of London and near some of the best-known landmarks and all without exhausting yourself by walking to all of them. For example, the cruise will take you by the Tower of London, Shakespeare's Globe Theatre, the HMS Belfast, and more.

The Tower of London is easily one of the most important sites in all of London. The Tower of London, declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site, is extremely old, with the oldest known use of the area as a lookout dating back a thousand years. Many consider the tower to be very haunted, and there are reports of people seeing the ghosts of several famous historical figures like Anne Boleyn, Jane Gray, Henry VI, and others. The Crown Jewels are also on display, as are plenty of exhibits on history (with one dedicated to some rather gruesome torture methods), old notes of long-gone prisoners, and more. Definitely don't miss out on the Tower of London.

There are also lots of palaces and castles to explore, including Windsor Castle, the largest occupied castle in the world, Hampton Court Palace, the palace of King Henry VIII, and Kensington Palace, the birthplace of Queen Victoria and home of Princess of Diana.
