

Published based on Learn About How To Get Additional U.S. Passport Pages Fastest Way

Learn About How To Get Additional U.S. Passport Pages Fastest Way

If you travel abroad often, you might yourself running out of room in your passport. The standard US passport is issued with 24 visa sheets. If that's not enough for you, you can get additional passport pages fastest way into your book.

Passport Pages

As you travel, you will find it makes sense to check how many blank sheets you have before you have to leave the United States. When you check regularly, you'll always know how many you have left. When you get down to four blank visa pages, you'll want to start the process of getting additional ones.

Required Federal Forms

The first step is to fill out federal form DS-4085, which is the application for the extra sheets. You can download the form from a variety of websites. However you decide to put through your application, you'll need to have this completed and signed form.

Valid Documents

In addition to the federal form, you will also need to include your current passport and the application fee. If you decide to take care of this process on your own, you'll send your application packet to one of two addresses, depending on how quickly you want your travel book returned to you. The standard turnaround time to get new blank sheets is four to six weeks. If you want the expedited service, you can expect to wait two to three weeks.

Additional Pages

However, if a two to three week is still too long, you can use a private company to get it done for you faster. The US government has authorized a number of private companies to act as an agent on your behalf to expedite your passport requests. While there are a number of companies that can handle this for you, you want to use one that will guarantee the quick processing time they promise. So, getting a passport is easy!

Location

Of course, how quickly you want them will depend on how much you are willing to pay for the faster service. The private companies all offer a variety of turnaround time options, from two weeks to as quickly as same day service, or just about any time frame in between these two extremes. As you would guess, the faster service you want, the more expensive the company's fee will be.

Blank Visa Pages

If it's time to renew your passport, the fastest way to get additional visa sheets may be to request them at this time. On a renewal application, you can request that your new passport have 52 blank visa pages, instead of the normal 24. When you start with extra sheets, you'll have to worry about getting extra ones less often.

Even if your travel document is valid, it won't help you if there is no place for your destination country to stamp its entry visa in it. Since there are so many services that help you get additional pass port pages fastest way, there is no reason why you should ever be caught off guard without enough blank sheets to cover your trip. If you do find yourself in a travel emergency without any blank sheets, you can some within 24 hours but you'll pay for the privilege. So, getting your U.S. passport is easy!

You can also find this article published on Learn About How To Get Additional U.S. Passport Pages Fastest Way, and on the tag pages additional passport pages, application, blank visa, getting a passport, passport, time.