

Published based on Renewing U.S. Passports Online Is Very Quick And Very Simple

Renewing U.S. Passports Online Is Very Quick And Very Simple

Renewing passports used to be a process that required an in-person visit to a passport agency. This is no longer the case because this renewing passports online can now be accomplished entirely from home. The experienced companies that provide this service work with the relevant government agency to expedite paperwork processing. They also offer customer assistance throughout the passport renewal process.

The US passport renewal process used to require an appointment in order to get the renewal. Even with an appointment, the applicant was often forced to wait at the agency upon arrival. The process has been streamlined because it can now be accomplished via the Internet and mail. The added convenience and timesaving aspect of this method make it more appealing to many who need such services.

The online service providers assist throughout the renewal process. They provide all relevant forms and instructions on their Web sites. In addition, they verify that the forms have been completed correctly and that the proper document has been submitted. They even staff a customer service team to provide answers to questions that arise. All the applicant needs to do is complete the necessary forms, provide the existing US passport, and have US passport photos taken.

The US passport photos must meet certain requirements stipulated by the government. The applicant will need to provide two identical photos measuring 2x2 inches taken from a frontal view. There are additional requirements regarding permissible attire and eyewear, so be sure to read the guidelines. It may be best to have a professional skilled in US passport photos take these pictures in order to prevent rejection of submitted photos.

For all of the added convenience they offer, these service providers charge a fee in excess of the government's charges. The fee for the company's service must be made payable separately in the form of a check or money order. The government fees must be made payable directly to the government agency. Both payments should be included in the package containing the renewal application.

Once the package is ready for shipping, should be sent to the provider by way of a private carrier such as FedEx or UPS. This ensures that the package can be tracked during its entire trip and gets there securely. The paperwork package contains vital information along with the old US passport and there is no sense taking any chances on it getting lost or misplaced.

Online US passport services handle other items in addition to US passport renewal. They can process initial US passport application and handle replacement of lost or stolen US passports. Additional pages for existing US passports may also be ordered through these companies. Most of these items may be processed in as little as 24 hours, which provides instant gratification for those in need.

Providers specializing in issuing and renewing United States passports online offer a service that is very convenient for the customer. They provide all information required to renew your USA Passport without ever leaving home, provided the customer already has the passport photos and documentation readily available. These companies are invaluable to those who do not have the time to stand in line at a passport agency.

You can also find this article published on Renewing U.S. Passports Online Is Very Quick And Very Simple, and on the tag pages Online, process, renewing passports, renewing U S passports, service, US passport renewal.