The Easiest Way To Renew Your Expired United States Passport

When going for unplanned vacation or business trip, many people assume that every traveling document is in order. However, you might find that you have a passport that has expired therefore you will be forced to renew the expired passport before that day. The guidelines below, illustrates steps that you can follow to acquire a new one within the shortest time possible.

Application

The first thing you need to do is either visit an embassy and fill an application form manually or download a form from the Internet. For the process to take less time, it would be advisable to present your previous passport. In the case where your document is tattered or has any alterations, it will be wise to present yourself to the agency for verification.

Damaged Passport

In addition to this, you should also note if your old passport is really damaged and if it is not easy to see the photo or view its contents. If this is the case, you will have to apply for a new one rather than renewing. Moreover, if you acquired the traveling documents fifteen years ago, it is better to apply for a new one.

Gather Documents

Should you decide to use mail delivery services, you should place the forms and the old travel document in an envelope in such a way that they will not be damaged. Furthermore the embassy should inform you when they receive the mail and also when they will deliver the new travel document. Ensure that you ask about information on the modes of payment for the process to enable you make payments the right way.

Photographs

Despite the fact that the old travel document has a photo of you, it is a requirement that you submit two new photos. The photos required should be recent. To avoid the scenario where the photos are rejected due to poor quality, you should contract an experienced and qualified photographer for quality results. Other requirements needed on the photos include the setting of the photo to the required size and the background. You should avoid wearing sunglasses or spectacles when taking the photo.

Travel Permit

It is easier for you to use the services of a travel agency to do the renewal for you. Ensure that the company you select has the professionalism and has the proper qualifications to undertake the task. Beware of those that are not working to serve you but to make as much money as they can. Thus, choose one that will work to your advantage based on your needs.

Fees

You should pay the necessary amount as fixed by the embassy. This will make the process swifter. Ensure that the agency helps you get your passport at affordable and reasonable rates and is not out to swindle you. If you decide to use mail services, you should be ready to foot the transport costs.

Once you consider the factors highlighted above, you will have the best experience when getting replacement for your expired U S passport.
