Visiting The Most Significant Sites In The Republic Of Bulgaria

Bulgaria is a European country where Eastern and Western European influences are always infusing. Picturesque and beautiful, Bulgaria is located in Southeastern Europe on the Balkan Peninsula. With so much history under its belt, Bulgaria has grown as a very unique country, and there is no shortage of things to do and see. If you are thinking of taking a vacation, consider visiting Bulgaria. Just remember that when you travel outside the United States that you will need a passport. Going online is the fastest, easiest way to do this, where you can even apply for a next day USA Passport.

Online passport services are a great way to secure your travel documents for a number of reasons. Since you can access their services at any time of day, its often much more convenient to do this from your home instead of traveling to a brick and mortar location in your city. Even if you don't need a brand new passport, you can still visit these websites and use their other services such as adding pages to your USA passport.

If you do decide to visit Bulgaria you will certainly want to visit the UNESCO World Heritage Sites. These locations are among the most popular attractions in Bulgaria for obvious reasons. UNESCO gives this special distinction to locations in the world that hold a lot of environmental or cultural value to the world. In Bulgaria, one of these places is The Kazanluk Tomb. This is a beehive type of tomb that has a lot of different decorations adorning the walls. One of these images is of a woman and it is actually depicted on the back of a Bulgarian coin! This tomb is part of a large necropolis and should be seen by anyone traveling to this area.

The Ivanovo Rock Churches are a similar sort of historical site. These buildings are of different varieties - chapels, monasteries, and churches - are they are all carved out of solid stone. Buildings of this sort are found nowhere else in Bulgaria, and they are famous for the still very clear Medieval frescoes that are on the walls. Monks lived in these buildings as early as 1220, and there are many buildings on the complex to explore.

Pirin National Park is yet another UNESCO World Heritage Site, but this one is recognized for its environmental status. In the park, there are two separate nature reserves. This specific park is recognized for it's huge number of plant species. 1300 different species can be found in this one site, 30% of all plant species in Bulgaria. Many of these plant species are endemic to this region, meaning they are found nowhere else on earth. There are 45 species of land mammals in the park, 50% of the total in the country. In addition to this, there are 160 species of bird, 8 species of amphibian, 11 species of reptiles, and 2090 species of invertebrates.

With so much natural, historical, and archaeological places to explore and see, you will never be short of things to do in Bulgaria. Mostly free from the industrialization of Western Europe, this country is full of things that can really show you the spirit of Bulgaria. Just remember that you will need a passport. Remember that next day passport services are available online, as well as other passport services like pass port pages.
